Celebrating 25 Years

The Financial Crisis of Cancer

2/3 of cancer patients are unable to work full-time after a cancer diagnosis¹

Cancer patients who experience financial hardship are more likely to die from their disease⁴

1 in 3 families are unable to meet their basic needs during cancer treatment, including housing, food, and utilities^{1,2}

87% of survivors said their cancer care team had not discussed finances⁵

Over 1 in 3 cancer patients stop adhering to treatment because of cost³

Cancer patients are more likely to experience financial crisis if they are:

- Younger (18-54)
- People of color
- Less educated
- Lower income (<400% FPL)⁶

Message From Our Family Founders + CEO

25th Anniversary Reflections From Founding Families:

As Family Reach enters a quarter century of existence, we are eternally grateful to have such a dedicated, compassionate, and innovative community representing us. Our sincere thanks and appreciation goes out to the team, benefactors, and supporters who have witnessed the importance of our mission and jumped in to make it a reality.

It's truly humbling to think of the magnitude of families who do not have to walk their cancer journey alone because of Family Reach. We celebrate how far we have come to provide timely support for families, address the disparities in healthcare, and spread awareness on the national stage.

As we look forward to achieving even greater accomplishments in the next 25 years, we know Family Reach will innovate and adapt while staying anchored to our foundation. Christopher and Kristine live on through this remarkable endeavor.

The sky is the limit! Bravo to all!

With love and gratitude,
The Colangelo, Morello, and Wiatrak families

To Our Impactful Collaborators And Supporters:

Armed with a quarter century's worth of data, Family Reach marked 25 years by expanding our reach.

We had a proven Financial Treatment Program in our ranks and it was time to scale through launching new pilots and building equitable pathways to our services.

The world began to move on from the pandemic in 2021, though its devastating effects on the cancer community lingered. With a surge in late-stage diagnoses, interrupted treatment plans, and enhanced financial hardships, families facing cancer needed our support and expertise.

Our knowledge that every cancer experience looks different drove our collaborative pilot programs. We offered targeted solutions to combat evidence about food insecurity among cancer patients and uncover unique financial journeys by cancer type.

We entrenched ourselves in communities in need of our support, collaborating with local organizations and adding a Field Resource Navigator inside community cancer centers in Philadelphia. To remove language barriers, we made our financial guidebooks available in Spanish and launched phone interpretation services.

In 2021, we served patients of all ages in every state and collaborated with 855 cancer treatment centers. We focused on putting the Financial Treatment Program in the hands of as many patients as possible because every family facing cancer needs to know they're not alone and that we can help. They need to know, this is cancer.

The pandemic boosted national awareness of health disparities. People saw that in the wealthiest country in the world, we still have the poorest health outcomes because of financial barriers.

Families need to meet their basic needs before they can afford and access care. We have come so far in cancer research and treatments, but preventing cancer deaths takes more than science.

It's time to make financial treatment a standard of cancer care. Will you join us?

Thank you to everyone who helped us come this far and to all those sticking with us to celebrate what comes next.

With gratitude,

Carla Tardif
Family Reach CEO

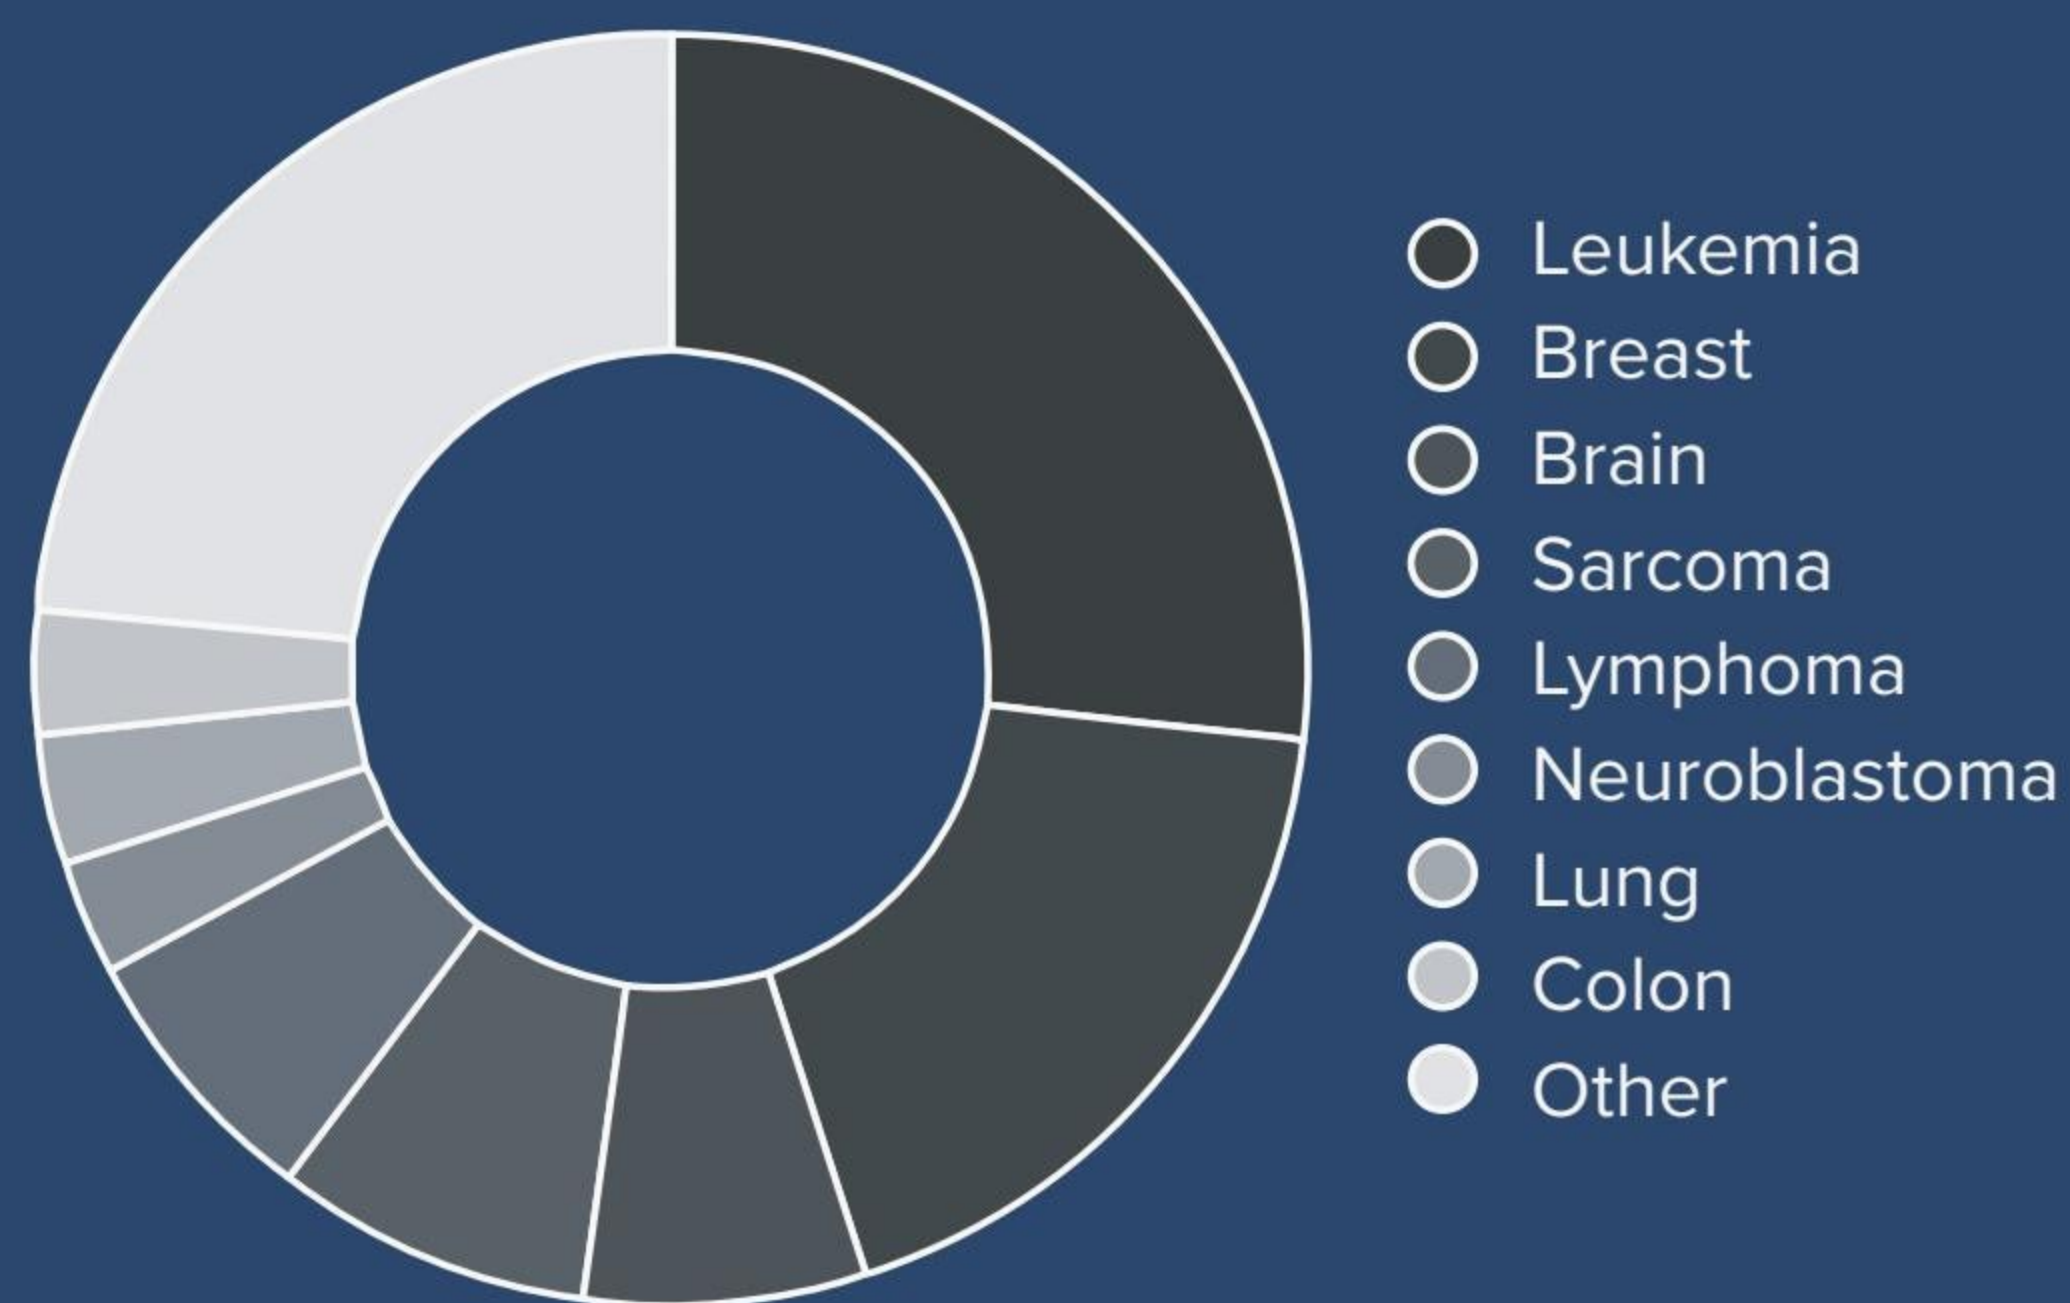

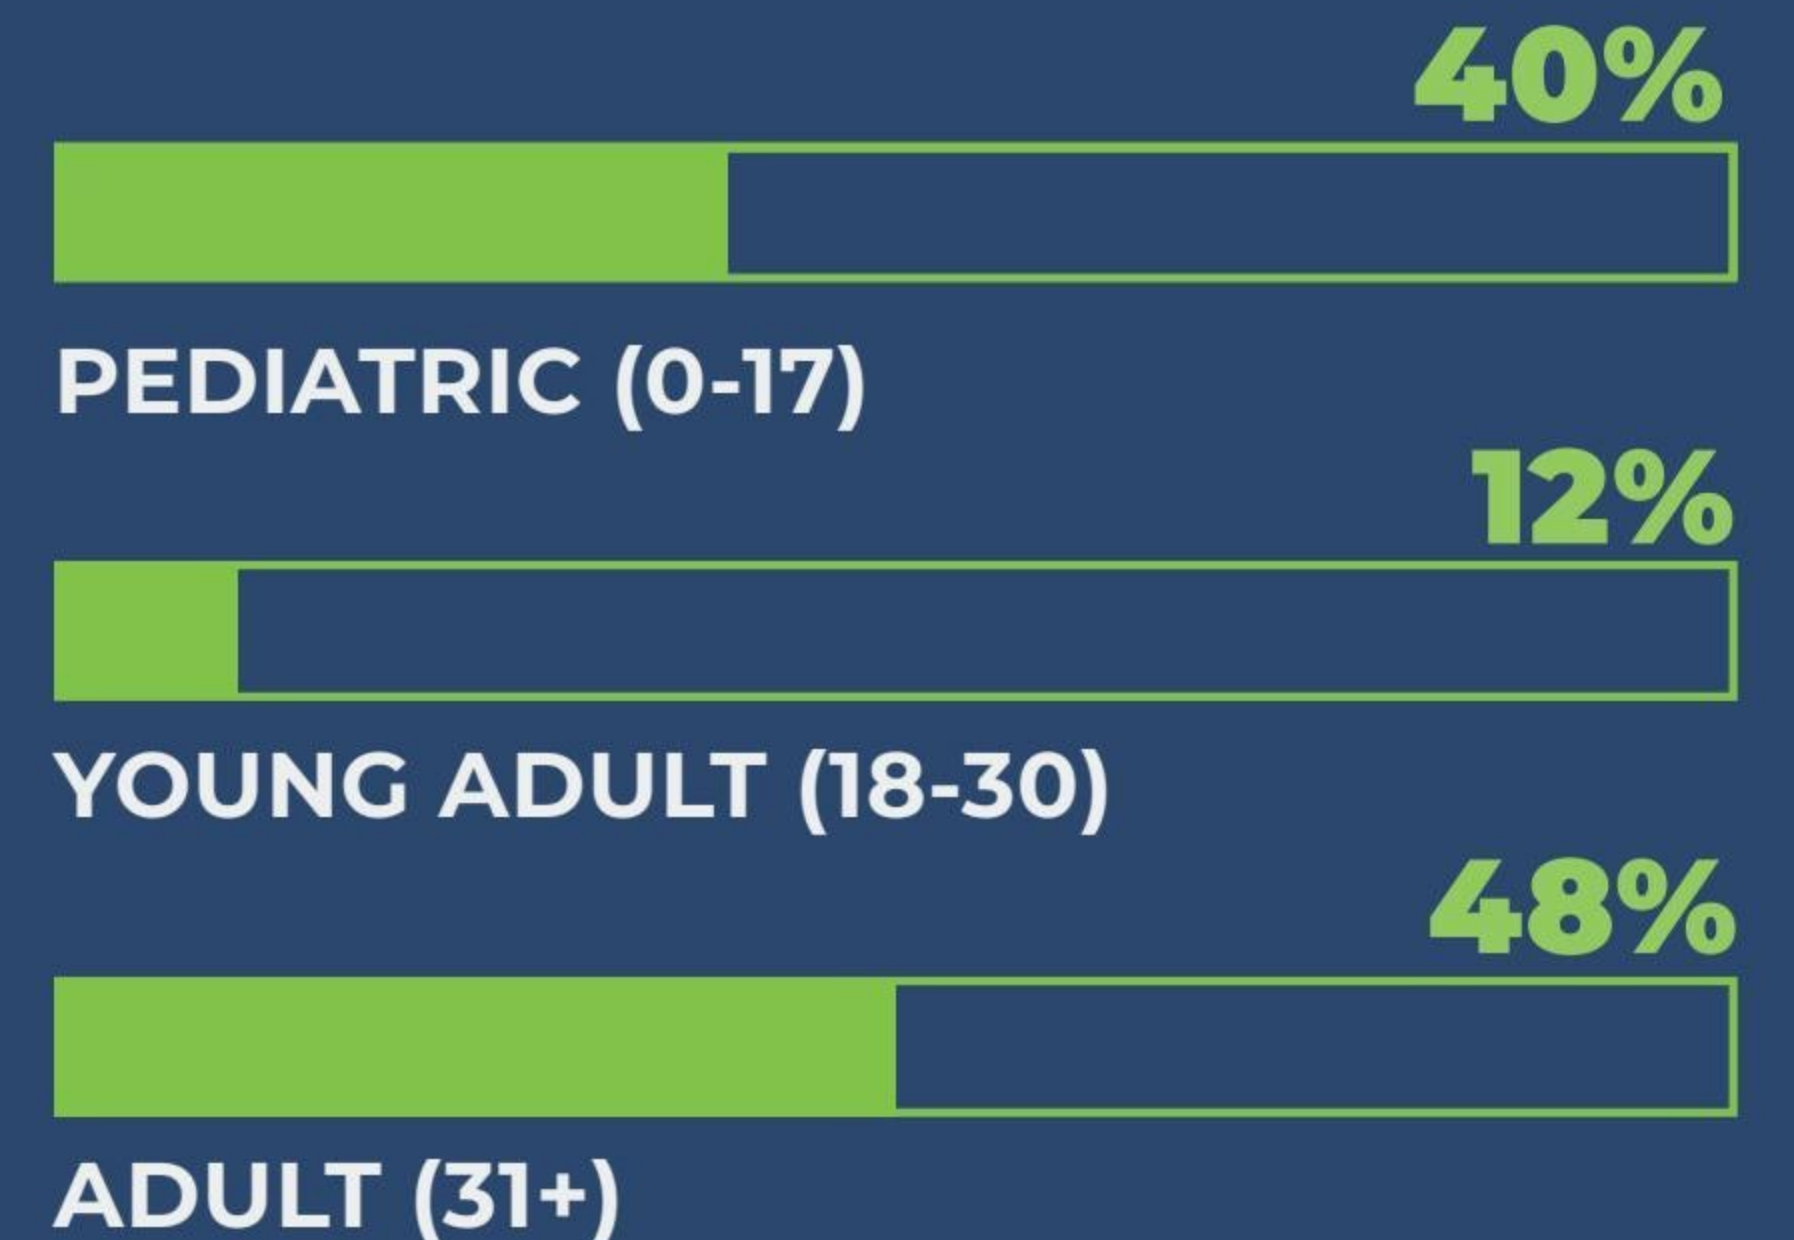

Our Reach in 2021

The Financial Treatment Program offers free education, resource navigation, coaching, and emergency relief to families facing cancer. The comprehensive support helps families meet their basic needs and reduces financial stress so they can focus on healing.

- Caregiver in Massachusetts

Our Impact in Focus: Meet Raven and Noel

When Raven's 4-year-old son Noel was diagnosed with acute lymphoblastic leukemia, cancer threatened to take everything away — including her path to homeownership after a recent divorce.

As a single mom of four, Raven is the family's only source of income. She had to miss work frequently to get Noel to treatment and care for him while his immune system was too weak to be at daycare.

"It was a very scary place to be," Raven shared. "I had to choose my son's health or money for bills to stay in our home. It's not a fair decision to have to make. Do I leave my 4-year-old son at the hospital with the nurses and go to work? Or be there to accompany and comfort my sick child? A mom is always going to choose their child."

Before she knew it, Raven wiped out her savings. She watched the overdraft fees pile up as she paid for rent and other bills, and found herself needing resources like local food pantries.

To restore Raven's confidence in her finances, Family Reach leaned on our partnership with Freshly and provided Raven with free access to healthy meals. We also paired her with one of our volunteer Certified Financial Planner™ professionals for free financial coaching.

"Robert showed me ways to manage my finances and stretch my money through the month, how to deal with debts, and helped me stay consistent with a home buying program," Raven said. "With his guidance and encouragement, I was able to keep my budget, save my income tax refund, and officially purchase my first home — 4 bedroom, 3 bath. It is life-changing!"

Noel's cancer journey taught Raven how connected finances are to her family's health. She encourages others to know that help is out there to "carry some of the load."

History: 25 Years at a Glance

Family Reach passed two major milestones in 2021: 25 years of service and over 60,000 families served. As we celebrate our reach and impact over the past quarter century, we hold the memories of Christopher Colangelo and Kristine Morello-Wiatrak in our hearts. In 1996, the Colangelo and Morello families saw the life-threatening financial impacts of cancer and chose to do something. They built community, raised awareness, and developed a model that could scale. Grounded in this strong foundation, we march forward.

Year 25: Collaborating to Amplify Impact

By uniting organizations who serve patients at varying points along the cancer continuum, we're alleviating disparities in cancer outcomes rooted in financial health.

In 2016, Family Reach responded to Vice President Biden's Cancer Moonshot by launching the Financial Treatment Program. It's the only comprehensive support program that prioritizes financial health in cancer care. By reducing financial stress for patients and caregivers, the Financial Treatment Program improves access to care, adherence to treatment, and survival rates.

In the five years since launching the Financial Treatment Program, Family Reach has invested in collaborations that bring our proven services to at-risk patients, wherever or however they are accessing cancer treatment and support resources. Knowing that socioeconomic factors impact cancer outcomes, we use data to identify gaps in our reach and prioritize communities with the deepest financial needs.

Family Reach Manifesto

We see you.

Forced to choose between your health and your home. Scaling back groceries.

Cutting your meds in half so you can turn the electricity back on. Hoping to catch up on rent next month.

We see you standing outside the emergency room at 4 AM, trying to judge exactly how bad the fever is. Wondering if you can afford to wait a few more hours. Knowing an ER co-pay will pull you even further behind on your mortgage. Imagining for the first time in your life that foreclosure is in your future.

All because you were dealt the cancer card.

We see past your diagnosis – we know that behind the words patient, sick, cancer, there is a family. A family whose only worry should be getting to the other side of cancer.

Because we believe everybody deserves a fair shot.

We believe the system is broken.

We believe the system failed YOU. You did not fail your family. We believe that you are not alone, and that together, we can fix this. We believe in solutions that promise you, and every family after you, only one choice, to focus on your health.

We're not afraid to fight for you, because that's what families do.

We are Family Reach.
